

Director of the Center for Medical Research

The Kellogg School of Management at Northwestern University seeks a Director for its new Center for Medical Research. The Center oversees research in both the health services and medical products sector. The applicant should have a PhD in economics and a minimum 5 years of successful postgraduate research in the fields of health care management, health economics, medical innovation, or related fields. The Director will be expected to conduct independent research, collaborate with Kellogg faculty, secure research funding, and oversee data bases to support faculty and student research. The Director will also be expected to teach one or more courses in Kellogg's Health Industry Management and/or Biotechnology programs. Compensation will be commensurate with the candidate's qualifications.

Please send an application letter, vita, supporting material and the names of three references to David Dranove, Kellogg School of Management, Management & Strategy Dept., 2001 Sheridan Road, Evanston, IL 60208 by May 1, 2008.

Northwestern University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer. Applications from women and minorities are encouraged. Hiring is contingent on eligibility to work in the United States.