

Purpose

1. To provide an opportunity for scholars in psychology, political science, sociology, communication, and business schools to interact and exchange research findings, ideas and ideally, collaborate with one another.
2. To memorialize the conference with an edited volume.

Who Should Attend

Faculty and students who are interested in groups and teams and in management of conflict. Conference presentations will cover issues related to conflict in teams including: conflict history, group identities, interpersonal dynamics (trust, respect, etc.), effective team leadership, confronting norm violations, multicultural differences, difficult personalities, and effective conflict management. A broad range of concepts will be explored and tied together with a presenter panel at the end of the conference.
