KEYNOTE SPEAKER

Samir Mayekar '13

Deputy Mayor for Neighborhood & Economic Development, City of Chicago

Samir Mayekar '13 has significant experience in the public, private and nonprofit sectors. Prior to his current role as Chicago's deputy mayor for neighborhood & economic development, Samir served in the Obama administration in the White House and at a federal infrastructure finance agency. As co-founder and CEO of NanoGraf Corporation, a global manufacturer of advanced materials, Samir built a green energy company that continues to grow in Bronzeville, Chicago. Samir has deep neighborhood roots in Chicago, having served as board chair for a community-engaged youth theater in Albany Park and a Grammy-winning music ensemble serving the Back of the Yards, a neighborhood on the southwest side of Chicago. He holds a BA from Northwestern University, an MBA from the Kellogg School of Management, where he received the Paul and Daisy Soros Fellowship for New Americans, and currently serves on Northwestern's board of trustees. Samir is fluent in Spanish and married to Dr. Emily Mayekar, an orthopedic surgeon working at Illinois' largest trauma center serving Chicago's South Side.

CONFERRING THE ACADEMIC HOOD

Origins and symbolism

The tradition of conferring the academic hood has a long history. During the twelfth and thirteenth centuries, when universities were evolving in medieval Europe from their ecclesiastical beginnings, the ordinary dress of a scholar was that of a cleric. Inhabiting unheated monastic buildings, students and teachers wore long robes, often with hoods to cover tonsured heads. Over the centuries, academic garb gained educational status and shifted away from its former associations with practical dress. The clothing began to differ in length and color of lining and trim, based on degree, school and faculty, according to university prescription.

In the United States, most academic dress follows the general provisions of the Intercollegiate Code of 1895, as most recently revised in 1959. Under this code, the master's hood is three and one-half feet in length and the doctor's four feet. The velvet border of the hood is three and five inches wide for the master's and doctorate degrees, respectively. The hood is lined with satin in the official color of the school. At Northwestern, the hood is lined in purple (the school's color) with gold chevrons. The color of the hood's border indicates the type of degree being awarded: dark blue velvet is the universal PhD, acorn velvet is the universal MBA.
