

CALL FOR PAPERS

26th Annual Moskowitz Prize for Outstanding Quantitative Research in Sustainable and Responsible Investing

Submission Deadline: June 30, 2021

THE PRIZE

The Moskowitz Prize is awarded each year to the paper best representing outstanding research on sustainable and responsible investing and the financial implications of responsible business practices in capital markets.

The Moskowitz Prize recognizes outstanding quantitative research papers that are relevant to investment practitioners in sustainable and responsible finance. Although the prize is usually awarded to a finance paper, past winners have been from the fields of economics and management as well.

HISTORY & PURPOSE

The prize is named for Milton Moskowitz (1932-2019), one of the field's first and most innovative investigators, whose pioneering legacy continues through the Moskowitz Prize. In 2020 the Moskowitz Prize became an initiative of Northwestern University's Kellogg School of Management. First presented in 1996 by the U.S. Social Investment Forum, the Prize was awarded by UC Berkeley's Haas School of Business from 2005-2019. Kellogg is honored to carry forward the legacy of work that has made the Prize the most prestigious research award in sustainable finance.

ELIGIBILITY

- Both published papers and working papers are eligible. Working papers should be of a quality suitable for publication in a peer-reviewed academic journal.
- Papers will be considered for the Prize only once.
- Past winners are welcome to enter the competition with new work, and multiple submissions from an author/group of authors are accepted.

JUDGING

Each year's prize-winning paper is selected by a panel of judges from academia and the investment industry. Honorable mentions or additional monetary prizes may be awarded at the judges' discretion.

Judging criteria include:

- Significance to practitioners of sustainable and/or responsible investment
- Innovativeness of research question and approach
- Appropriateness and rigor of methods
