WHAT SETS KELLOGG APART

Our alumni say they are able to stand out among peers thanks to this combination of attributes that instantly identifies them as a Kellogg leader:

A thirst for creativity and innovation: Your time at Kellogg will give you the confidence to ask the tough questions and step into the unknown to try something new and unconventional.

A true exchange of ideas: When you collaborate with fellow students, faculty, alumni and school leaders, you'll do so through spirited debate and hard-won achievement to bring together all points of view in the understanding that our differences are our strengths.

An eye toward empathy: Kellogg prepares a different kind of leader, one who strives to understand others' perspectives and uses that knowledge to create impact and trust across cultures and communities.
